

What you see and hear this evening is possible because of the work and support of so many people behind the scenes and we want to thank everyone who has been part of this...

To our Night Market Vendors and Food Trucks... Thank you all for coming out and supporting our young musicians tonight and bringing another layer of festivity and connection to our community this evening.

To the elementary teachers... Thank you for your flexibility with our wacky teaching schedules that allow us to continue to connect with your students so we can begin to call them ours too!

To the DW Poppy teachers... Thank you for sharing these highly involved kids between music, athletics and all the other activities here at DW Poppy. It's how we all manage to keep creating amazing large-school experiences for kids in our smaller, highly connected community.

To the school and district administration in the DW Poppy Family of Schools... Thank you Diane Smilie, Alan Joo, Colleen Harvie, Daniel Woelders, Lisa Dolinski, Rhonda Krisko, Aaron Powell, Kurt Reynaud and Marcello Moino. Your ongoing support of music throughout the DW Poppy Family of Schools is key to creating opportunities like tonight for the children in our community.

To the parents... Thank you for encouraging your children's interest in music. From ensuring your kids remember their instrument and music on band days, to driving them for early morning rehearsals, to Cathy Gropp and her team of volunteers this evening who did everything other than the music, your efforts help the kids more than you might think.

Finally, to the kids... Thank you for taking "reasonable risks" and making awesome mistakes as part of learning,. Thank you for remembering to finish every "I can't" statement with "yet". Most of all, thank you for choosing to spend your time making music with us this year. To the grads, we look forward to stories of your further adventures next year, and beyond and to all the rest of you, "Rack'em and Stack'em" and we'll see you in September!
